Introducing the newest size in our exclusive brand lineup...

The Robolo

...a sub-Robusto with amazing flavor & burn!

The size that's sweeping the cigar world is the big-ring sub-Robusto. Credit is given to Nub (page 20) for starting the trend, and now we have word that many cigar manufacturers are looking to introduce a short, big-ring vitola to their lines. Not one to be left behind, Best Cigar Prices now offers its own version for your smoking pleasure: the 4½ x 60 Robolo. These are not your usual suspects -- the shorter, stockier size allows us to pack a Churchill's worth of tobacco in a small package, delivering a cool, flavorful smoke immediately after lighting. Despite the size, these sticks will smoke for up to an hour.

Cigars for Troops

Since the first Gulf War, the Cigars for Troops program has been one of the most popular ways for civilians to show their gratitude to the men and women serving in the Armed Forces.

Hundreds of companies have stepped up to provide our brave soldiers with a something to ease just a bit of the stress and strain of operating in a foreign theater of war. To do our part, we're offering three different Cigars for Troops samplers, each containing four premium stogies made by either Romeo Y Julieta or H. Upmann. For each sampler pack you buy, Altadis will send a free cigar to the troops.

Many other companies are coming out with this size (including us!) but no one does it quite like the original innovators. # Bella Torres by Habana Cuba

This is your good-time summer smoke. Chilling out on the beach with a nice stogie is one of life's greatest pleasures -- a sky full of sun, and the only clouds rolling in are coming from your cigar. Knowing you got that stick at a pittance will curl your toes in the sand and widen your smile. Not that you're counting pennies... heck, you're on vacation! But you'll be blown away when you compare Bella Torres to your other "money is no object" sticks. It's made by the masters at Habana Cuba, best known for their fine work with Oliveros cigars. It's an easy-drawing, even-burning premium smoke will always stand up to the heat. With touches of tropical spice, cedar and caramel, you'll forget all about everyday stresses as you drift away on the breeze of the trade winds. The construction guarantees your ash won't blow away with it. We'll include a special Bella Torres sampler with each box, featuring a BCP mug, four extra cigars and a double-blade cutter.

Alec Bradley has done it again, creating a deliciously dark twist on our Connecticut-sheathed Kensington line. The Maduro wrapper is a rich chocolate color, and the chocolate appearance is not just for show. Hints of unsweetened cocoa permeate this smoke, along with an ever-present touch of spice. Not quite full-bodied, this cigar is still a bold choice, with a rich and robust flavor that never becomes "too much". If you don't consider yourself a Maduro man, this could be the stick that changes your mind. If you already feel dapper in a dark wrapper, you'll be wearing this one out around town. Whatever your fancy, we guarantee that the complexity you'll find between these leaves is hard to come by at a price like this.

FREE Straight 8 Sampler

a $43.75 value with any box of Romeo Y Julieta Reserva Real or Reserva Real Maduro

Romeo Y Julieta Reserva Real

It may be cliché to refer to the popularity of Romeo Y Julieta as a "love affair", but there must be some sort of epic romance going on -- these sticks seem to reproduce like rabbits. You'll find it in humidors around the world, from rich, powerful politicians and celebrities down to the working class. Its ubiquity is not only due to its iconic status -- this is, bottom line, an amazing cigar. The Reserva Real is a classy counterpart to the classic Romeo Y Julieta, with a fuller flavor and body. The taste of premium Dominican and Nicaraguan tobaccos is complimented by amazing hints of fruit, cedar and earth.

A short, spicy finish rolls off the Ecuadorian Connecticut Shade wrapper with just enough kick to leave you wanting more.

Romeo Y Julieta Reserva Real Maduro

When Romeo Y Julieta introduced the Real Maduro, other manufacturers must have been shaking in their boots. This cigar giant has since carved deeper and deeper into the Maduro market with this exceptional and reasonably priced offering. It features a rich, oily Connecticut Broadleaf Maduro wrapper that's triple-fermented to make this stick a full-bodied force to be reckoned with. The triple-fermentation process is so labor- and time-intensive, hardly anyone else is willing or able to do it -- but you will taste the difference. A toasty touch of chocolate spice will greet you, followed by a complex aroma of earthy goodness and a long, creamy finish. If maximum flavor and smokability is what you crave, the Real Maduro will not disappoint.

BCP EXCLUSIVE

Medici by Alec Bradley

Somebody get Da Vinci over here and tell him to bring his chisel, this cigar needs to be immortalized! Medici was sculpted from the finest tobacco from all across Central America. It has been detailed with a masterpiece of a wrapper: rich, dark, oily... all the attributes you'd want in a work of cigar art. It's no wonder this is a smoke fit to be framed since the artist behind this blend is none other than the famed Alec Bradley. The construction is second to none, with a burn that makes it look easy. But as anyone in the cigar industry will tell you, quality like this doesn't just happen overnight. Built upon years of experience and hard work, the Medici is a shining example of the age-old cigar making craft. This cigar is a BestCigarPrices exclusive, meaning that it would normally be very expensive -- but because it's our baby, you get a very reasonable price.

The Olde World Reserve is a true treasure, carefully crafted by Rocky Patel to be the most premium of premiums. You'll find this cigar firm to the touch but light in the hand, with a dark and oily veinless wrapper. You'll get a rich, full flavor from first draw to last. Fans of medium-bodied sticks will love this power upgrade, since the drawn-out aging and fermentation process creates such a well-balanced smoke it almost transcends normal descriptions of strength. This is a necessary indulgence for any fan of Rocky Patel, and has even been known to convert Padron Anniversario fans with just a couple puffs. # Don Pepin My Father

As any cigar smoker knows, the rich tradition of tobacco rolling traces back hundreds of years to Cuba, where the tradition was born. A lot has changed since then, but some manufacturers are still holding true to the time-honored Cuban methods of cigar creation. Don Pepin's My Father line have some of the same timeless qualities that make Cubans so sought after, including entubado bunching (accordion-folded filler) and a triple-cap head. This results in fantastically comfortable burn and draw, allowing the smoke to build to a complex crescendo as you puff. Full of spicy undertones, this cigar exhibits an earthy foundation but the aroma is so unique as to be indescribable. Aged to perfection, its flavor lasts all the way to the nub.

Liga Privada

Liga Privada was one of the most hyped cigars of last year, and as more and more smokers got wind of Drew Estate's newest innovation, the feedback was nearly unanimous: believe the hype. The "Stalk Cut Habano" wrapper is unique to this cigar alone, created via a rare cultivation process that allows the tobacco to retain its natural oils, sap and nutrients. This translates into an incredibly rich and almost syrupy sweetness, with brilliant notes of fruit, nuts and cocoa. The cigar is full-bodied but delicate on the palate, truly a singular and remarkably complex smoking experience. With all this buzz and a limited run of 85,000, Liga Privada is one of the most in-demand brands in the whole industry.

Arturo Fuente Hemingway

A picture may be worth a thousand words, but a picture painted first from words has a greater life to live. Ernest Hemingway put to ink so many images for us to contemplate. It is still hard to tell whether his life or his writing is more intriguing. So many things remain from his essence. We bring out today just one of those things: The Hemingway line by Arturo Fuente. I am sure many of you have proudly lit the tapered Figurado foot of a Hemingway cigar. If you haven't yet had the pleasure, then you have a fine experience ahead. It is a cigar that anyone can smoke: Mellow enough for a mild smoker and flavorful enough for a stronger palate. It has even won over those that do not usually enjoy a Cameroon wrapper. This is a super-smooth Dominican cigar, made with great care by the best at Arturo Fuente, perhaps the most famous cigar family in the world. The pen may be mightier than the sword, but I'll take a Fuente Hemingway over either one!

Gurkha Assassin

The folks at Gurkha are masters when it comes to making cigars, but their packaging and marketing has often stolen the show. I mean, what do you want for naming a cigar the "Assassin" and putting in a box so heavy that it's practically a coffin? They know us marketing people drool over the puns to be made – that this is a "killer" cigar, that it "assassinates" your preconceptions of what a premium cigar can taste like. Honestly, they could have stuck with the generic Cuban-sounding motifs that the rest of the cigar world uses and this still would be an absolute standout of a stogie.

This is Gurkha's first true full-body cigar, a strong but flavorful blend of Peruvian and Nicaraguan filler tobacco bound by Dominican leaves and encased in a spicy Brazilian wrapper.

Gurkha Evil

Right away, you'll feel the Gurkha Evil possessing your palate with a peppery blast of flavor. The underlying sweet chocolate tone is a perfect foundation to allow the bitter coffee and cocoa notes to dance in the aroma of this creamy treat. This was one of the top-rated sticks at last year's cigar convention, exhibiting a well-rounded combination of full-bodied strength and immaculate construction for pure puffing pleasure. From the dark, oily Brazilian wrapper to the pumped-up Dominican binder and Nicaraguan filler, the Gurkha Evil will curl your grin.

Gurkha Ancient Reserve

What's above super-premium? Ultra-premium? Mega-premium? Whatever you call it, Gurkha cigars are in a class of their own.

This is the company that created the most expensive cigar ever (the original Gurkha Black Dragon retailed for $1,150 per stick!)

The Ancient Reserve continues the lineage, and while it's expensive, luckily you don't have to be a millionaire to smoke it. It tastes like a million bucks, though, with a sumptuously spicy wrapper, and medium- to full-bodied flavor profile. The aroma is creamy and complex, sweet and smooth.

The packaging is equally as deluxe. One of the best Nicaraguan Puros on the market, Gurkha Ancient Reserve's popularity makes it a shoe-in for the high-end section of your humidor.

Montecristo 75th Anniversario

If you ask a Montecristo smoker what their favorite stick is and they don't say "75th Anniversario", they haven't tried it yet. Aficionados have been beside themselves with pleasure since this cigar came out a short time ago to commemorate the company's diamond anniversary. The Ecuadorian Habano wrapper positively sweats oils, giving the exterior a lustrous sheen. Blended from the highest-quality Nicaraguan and Honduran long-fill tobacco, this medium-bodied beauty simply cannot be missed while it's still available. The aroma is a dream, opening with raisin notes and sweet mocha and then revealing an earthy foundation with more sweetness on the finish. The construction holds the burn perfectly -- the ash is tenacious and pure white. This unbelievable level of quality is a fitting tribute to the exalted status of the Montecristo brand.

Ilusione

The cigars on this page spread are prized not only for their quality but also their rarity. Ilusiones are no exception, made in extremely small batches making them almost impossible to find (we know some people). Any stick that doesn't meet master blender Dion Giolito's astronomically high standards is cut from the run. It's obvious from the second you pick it up: this Nicaraguan puro exudes quality. Its glistening reddish-brown wrapper could be a museum exhibit for cigar construction, and the all-Nicaraguan tobacco chosen for each part of this cigar is obviously the best of the batch. Like the name suggests, the taste of this cigar is mysterious. We detect hints of dark chocolate, coffee and nuts amidst the ever-present spice, but the overall character of the cigar is something we've never experienced in any other brand. A once-in-a-lifetime smoke if there ever was one.

Tempus by Alec Bradley

In 2001, Alec Bradley owner Alan Rubin discovered a small farm on the border between Honduras and Nicaragua. Its tobacco was second-to-none, but produced in such small quantities that the tobacco was not ready for production... until now. We're here to tell you the wait was well worth it, producing a cigar beyond compare. There is literally no cigar like it. A spicy, earthy bouquet is the touchstone of this stogie, with a woody core present throughout. Nearer to the nub you'll find sweetness and nut notes emerging.

The aging process behind this cigar is incredible... a 7-year aged Honduran Criollo '98

Viso wrapper surrounds Nicaraguan/Honduran Criollo '98 and Corojo '99 Ligero and Viso tobaccos. You get a robust, complex, industry-leading smoke that becomes more of a classic as each day passes.

Alec Bradley Family Blend

The Alec Bradley Family Blend was originally made expressly for the fathers of the company's three principal executives. Now they're available for fathers everywhere! The taste achieves the ultimate refinement of the Alec Bradley trademark flavors. Smooth notes of leather are joined by distinct wood and nut flavors with an overall creaminess. For the quality you get at this price, many of our customers have converted to the Family Blend as their "go-to" cigar. Until now it was only available in boxes of 50, but we've just received the new 20-count boxes and are excited to give you the opportunity to buy into this legend-in-the-making.

Alec Bradley Prensado

Alec Bradley's strongest blend to date, the Prensado won't overwhelm your palate, but it might make your brain's pleasure center work overtime. It's easy to enjoy this cigar due to the gorgeous construction. The foot features a peek-a-boo swirl of light and dark tobaccos that when lit produces a beautiful ash gradation from dark grey to white. Initial notes of sweet cedar soon give way to a distinct pepper sensation, while coffee and cocoa weave their way in and out. Take a look at some of the reviews this cigar as received and you'll see why it makes Top 10 lists the world over. The Prensado is simply the epitome of a master-crafted premium smoke. Nothing this good comes cheap, but it really is a small price to pay for an unforgettable experience.

Nub

The cigar boom of the late 90s, the big-ring revolution, and now, the Nub. The latest trend to take the cigar world by storm originated from an Oliva sales rep who convinced sceptical traditionalists that a cigar can achieve instant gratification with a radical new shape. The shorter size and big ring gauge allows Nub to pack a Churchill's worth of tobacco in just a few inches of cigar. This also allows one to take in the rich complexity of the cigar right away without waiting for the ash to build to the middle third. Each wrapper choice has its own unique character – the Connecticut is buttery-smooth with hints of nuts and wood, the Habano is rich and spicy with a sweet, woody core, the Maduro has a deep leather core and fast, spicy finish.

Camacho Corojo

The first thing that strikes you about this stick is that it was rolled by a master. An effortless cut and draw produces thick, voluminous clouds of smoke right off the bat. You'll find a base flavor of wood with mild spice building to a mellow creaminess with foundations of leather and pepper. This is a Honduran Puro in the truest sense of the word – the entire cigar is constructed from the Corojo leaf, grown in the same Jamastran Valley region. Crisp and clean down to the nub, the Camacho Corojo is a very reasonably-priced premium for all its inherent complexity.

Natural

Though it's a Drew Estate cigar, we must say up front this is not an infused stogie. Under blind taste-test conditions, you'd never guess that this cigar is all-natural and the only ingredient is tobacco. The Natural takes the inherent flavors of coffee, cream and chocolate found in trace amounts in normal cigar tobacco and positively makes them sing out loud. We're not sure what magic they worked, but this truly is a gourmet cigar, available in several extremely varied blends, sizes and strengths.

C.A.O. Cameroon L'Anniversaire

If you're looking for classic Cameroon flavor in a creamy and complex package, you might want to check out this favorite from C.A.O. An easy burn greets you at the foot, with a slow build in flavor from light notes of leather, coffee and cocoa. As the ash develops, you'll notice this cigar really opening up, bringing the more subtle flavors of the first third to the foreground of your palate. Fans of Cameroon wrappers are in for a serious treat with these stogies.

Al Capone

Sweet and petite are the defining characteristics of an Al Capone smoke, much unlike the man himself. The strongest tie to the bootlegging Chicago gangster has to be the choice of flavors, as this cigarillo comes in post-Prohibition rum or cognac infusions. Whether you choose the filter or non-filter model, the sweetened head will immediately excite your senses. Thanks to quality Nicaraguan and Brazilian tobacco, along with a unique Bahia wrapper, the Al Capone is a smooth but rich flavored smoke. We highly recommend it to any time-pressed cigar fan – you will be surprised that such a big flavor can be contained in such a small stick.

Dannemann Moods

Dannemann are the masters of the flavored cigarillo, churning them out at amazing consistency for over a century. Blending Brazilian and Indonesian tobaccos, Dannemann Moods are the company's very popular fruit-flavored offer. What kind of fruit is in there? It's more of a question of what's not in there. The taste is a can't-put-your-finger-on-it combination of flavors that can only be described as complex. Pre-cut with a natural wrapper and binder, these cigarillos come ready to smoke. They're packaged in a special foil-sealed pack to maintain freshness for up to a year, but they're so delicious we doubt that's much of a selling point for you.

VegaFina

Interestingly, the VegaFina line is lesser known in America, but in Europe it is one of the most sought-after Dominican cigars on the continent. Perhaps us state-siders have just been overlooking this brand due to the low price tag, but speak to anyone across the pond and they'll rave about how smooth and aromatic this mild-bodied stick can be. It's a true steal of a deal, featuring a hand-selected Ecuadorian Connecticut shade wrapper, a flavor profile full of sweetness and earth and a long leathery finish while remaining mild throughout.

PERDOMO

If there is a theme to the Perdomo family history, it is overcoming hardship to achieve greatness. In 1950s Cuba they were just starting to make big moves in the cigar industry, but Castro's "New Cuba" would put a halt to their progress. Victims of imprisonment and violence, the family finally made it to America where they had to start life from scratch. It wasn't until 1991 when Perdomo would begin manufacturing cigars again, though this time great things were in store. The line was reborn as production moved from Miami to Nicaragua. Eventually opening a massive 88,000 square foot factory the locals call "El Monstro", Perdomo now stands as one of the top cigar manufacturers. As Nick Perdomo Jr. says, "It is the realization of a dream that has lasted through three generations. A dream to make the best cigars in the world."

Acid

As Sigmund Freud once famously quipped, "sometimes a cigar is just a cigar." Well, an Acid is never just a cigar. Made with a special proprietary aroma-infusion process that would have made Freud's free-associating head spin, Acid is the cigar of the future. As such, it's met with some resistance from old-fashioned stogie fans. Any scepticism from stick-in-the-mud puffers has been blown away by the massive popularity of Acids with a brave new generation of cigar smokers. They can't get enough of the intense and original flavors, seemingly infinite variety and cutting-edge packaging and design. A cigar smoker who hasn't tried an Acid is like a newspaper reader who's never browsed the Internet.

Java by Drew Estate

The first time I took a few Javas to the golf course, they were all gone by the fourth hole. The aroma alone had people wandering over and boldly asking for a puff. I justified my generosity because I'm pretty sure everyone went home and bought a box from us that day. You get the renowned Drew Estate tobacco, given subtle mocha and espresso flavors by a special aromatic infusion process. As it turns out, the space between flavored and traditional cigars is a delicious place to be. ## Isla del Sol

The sublime Isla del Sol flavor is a world in and of itself – a lush and beautiful island in amidst oceans of run-of-the-mill sticks. You'll be whisked away on a cloud of creamy, dreamy flavors when you light up this mild- to medium-bodied Nicaraguan. It's another Drew Estate instant hit, containing tons of traditional tobacco taste imbued with mocha and coffee aromas during the aging process. A less expensive alternative to the Java, it is equally as well constructed. Who wants to worry about bum when they're on a cigar vacation? From the rich and mellow light down to the sugar-dipped nub, you'll be basking in the glory of a premium Drew Estate cigar at a next-to-nothing price.

Maker's Mark

Sometimes you can judge a book by its cover. In the case of Maker's Mark cigars, there's no mistaking the red wax-dipped glass tubes for another brand. The legendary Kentucky distillery made absolutely sure each cigar exhibited the same character and quality as their bottled products do. As such, expect a delicious bourbon-infused smoking experience borne from Cuban-seed Dominican tobaccos. Maker's Mark whisky is too precious to just spray on the tobacco. Rather, they allow the leaves to slowly absorb the flavor and aroma in a special conditioning room. The bourbon taste is subtle but the aroma is all Maker's Mark. Cheers!

Rum Runner

The Rum Runner is the quintessential summer cocktail, a tropical concoction that's almost too easy to enjoy. You'll get the same taste of the Caribbean in a Rum Runner cigar. This pirate-friendly stick is infused with spiced rum and wrapped in Indonesian tobacco leaves. Each size is named in the swashbuckling tradition, from the big-ring Canon to the more compact Treasure and Wench models. This is the stick that puts the "arrmm" in cigar.

Ambrosia

Ambrosia was the food of the Gods, though for many of us it conjures images of marshmallow and Jell-o fruit salad. Ambrosia the cigar is way closer to the food of the Gods, though equally as varied in flavor as the American version. This is an infused cigar like no other, containing exotic native spices from South Asia and Europe that linger on the palate like a fading dream. The tobacco is a mix of extra-strength vintage Honduran leaves and the newer Nicaraguan harvest. Choose from six delicious sizes and wrapper combinations.

Tabak Especial

If you love coffee, you'll love this cigar. Drew Estate, source of many an irresistible infused stogie, has come up with the perfect formula for translating rich Java flavor to tobacco. These shaggy-footed Nicaraguan sticks are available in two wrapper styles, a silky shade-grown Connecticut (Dulce) and a dark broadleaf Maduro (Negra) – so whether you take your coffee black or with cream, your tastes are covered. You get a velvety-smooth smoke with espresso and milk chocolate weaving in and out, and a burn that requires virtually no attention. This cigar excels at offering rich flavor while maintaining a mild- to medium-bodied strength level. A very accessible cigar for the beginning smoker, it's also great for an aficionado who may be sceptical of flavored cigars.

C.A.O. Flavours

One of the most popular flavored cigars on the market, C.A.O. has a knack for inventing new taste sensations. The company spares no expense in selecting the ingredients it uses to infuse its premium tobacco, researching each component until they're sure they've found the best. If they need a peach infusion, they're going to Georgia. Orange blossom honey? Only Florida will do. Vanilla beans? It doesn't matter that Madagascar is halfway across the world, only the best is used. This attention to detail is no joke once you light up a C.A.O. Flavour. You'll be smiling, that's for sure, but it'll be because you're experiencing a flavor innovation created lovingly from scratch. For the most part, the flavors are obvious, but here's a little background on the more complex blends: Moontrance is our most popular seller, a mix of bourbon, vanilla, peach and honey. Eileen's Dream is all about Irish whiskey, cream, coconut, nuts, chocolate and vanilla. Finally, Earth Nectar is flavored with nuts, cocoa, honey, raisins and chianti.

Oba! Oba! by Perdomo

The Oba! Oba! is the only cigar brand in the world featuring two exclamation points, and for good reason. When Perdomo sent us the first batch of our newest exclusive brand, our jaws dropped. When we realized we could sell them for next to nothing and still make a profit... well, we had to call in the cleaners to sweep our jaws off the floor. And sell it did, quickly rising in the ranks of popularity to the point where we had to start ordering them by the truckload. Available in a smooth, creamy natural wrapper or subtly spicy Maduro, you'll save even more buying two bundles at once. It's not a cigar you collect, it's a cigar you stock the humidor with and smoke all the time. Ask your Spanish-speaking friends what Oba! means and they'll tell you "wow." Tell them what you paid for it and they'll certainly repeat themselves.

Revolution by Perdomo

As the guy who writes the copy for the catalog, I gotta tell you it's tough sometimes. I love cigars, but obviously I don't love every cigar out there. That's why I look forward to writing about the Revolution. It's my favorite of our exclusive brands, hitting smack dab in the middle of the strength meter with medium-bodied decadence. The burn on this baby is so even and true it embarrasses sticks that cost twice as much. I've tried all the wrappers and honestly can't pick a favorite, they all got something going. The Connecticut is the most laid-back with just a hint of faraway spice. The Cameroon has a toothy, complex character with more pronounced spice notes. Finally, the Maduro sweetens up the taste, offering a distinct peppery kick and surprisingly floral undertone. It doesn't hurt that it's made by Perdomo, coming from a long line of top-rated smokes. This Revolution won't change the world, but it might spark a movement in your humidor. It did for me.

Gran Habano

Gran Habano's blenders are third-generation cigar masters, though the company itself is relatively new. Nonetheless, the signature Gran Habano flavor has caught like wildfire in only a decade's time. Offered in several distinct styles, the one constant in all the variations is high-quality ingredients and top-notch construction. The #1 is a mild- to medium-bodied cigar, Connecticut-wrapped for maximum mellowness and slight touches of spice and sweetness. The #3 boasts a pleasant and classic flavor, a real "go-to" cigar with a spiced cedar core and hearty undertones while remaining grounded in medium-body territory. You'll find the #5 fills out the fuller-bodied portion of the Gran Habano spectrum, a considerably spicy smoke full of dark tobacco power. Whichever you choose, you're getting an amazing deal on premiums starting as low as $3 per stick.

St. Luis Rey Reserva Especial

St. Luis Rey is another cigar brand that originated in Cuba but had since died out until Altadis came along to bring it back to its former glory. Honestly, we can't even remember the original – the modern version is so good we can't imagine it any other way. You get a lasting richness only found in super-premium cigars, and a woody, creamy texture as unique as it is satisfying. St. Luis Rey Reserva Especial has great construction, leaving a perfect gray ash that won't fall without a good tap. It's available in either a Natural or Maduro wrapper to fit your fancy.

Reel Grande

We have been in touch with the fine folks at the "Reel" Cigar Shop in Deerfield Beach, FL, and we came away with a haul of one of their house brand cigars, the Reel Grande. These cigars are made in Honduras using a rich blend of Honduran and Nicaraguan binder and filler tobaccos to achieve a complex medium-full bodied flavor. However, as the folks at the Reel Cigar Shop say, "size really does matter", and with these babies it's all about the girth. Offered in 3 different vitolas, each one boasting a full 60-ring, these are big smokes that are sure to satisfy. The increased size allows for the manufacturer to incorporate a greater quantity and variety of tobacco to gain a more complex blend. The additional space also allows for a smoother draw and a cooler smoke affording the smoker an opportunity to linger on all the flavors contained in each massive cigar.

CAO Brazilia

This full-bodied stick has some serious flare, with the packaging and band screaming "Brazil" just in time for the World Cup. Effortless to light and draw, this cigar will hit you instantly with delightful earth and spice notes. Hints of clove and bitter chocolate fade in and out while the smoke builds to a rich, creamy cloud. This stogie basically smokes itself, and the consistency in construction from the oily Brazilian Maduro wrapper to the Nicaraguan binder and filler. You'll be amazed that this cigar pumps so much rich flavor down to the nub and exhibits absolutely no "edge" or roughness.

La Flor Dominicana Air Bender

The name "Air Bender" comes from master blender Don Litto's love of classic martial arts movies. These ancient warriors used mysterious powers to defeat their foes. If you're not ready for an extra-full-bodied of a cigar, you might find yourself bruised and broken trying to puff on this powerhouse. But if you're a fan of full-bodied stogies, you'll marvel at the special powers of flavor and intensity this stick possesses. Made from homegrown Dominican filler and binder tobaccos, including some piloto Cubano, Sumatra seed and Corojo, you will really be able to appreciate the complexity of this cigar while its robust flavor envelops your palate.

La Aroma de Cuba Edicion Especial

The omnipresent cigar legend Don Pepin Garcia is at it once again with the La Aroma de Cuba Edicion Especial. Garcia has a Midas touch when it comes to blending tobaccos, and this stick is no exception. A medium- to full-bodied cigar for the seasoned smoker, it's milder than many of Garcia's previous efforts but still packs a rich tobacco punch. You'll get a zesty, spicy mix of earth and cedar with lighter notes of nuts, leather and cinnamon floating above the strong foundation. Available in five sizes, this is a fantastic new addition to the La Aroma de Cuba line and one that will likely go down in herfing history.

Winston Churchill Classic

Winston Churchill was the prototypical cigar fanatic. His biographer noted that in preparation for a high-altitude flight Churchill had a special oxygen mask made so he could smoke at 15,000 feet. It was only a matter of time before a company like Davidoff came along to honor the man for whom cigars were practically a religion. These pay fitting tribute with extremely high quality components including a delicious Ecuadorian wrapper and Dominican binder and filler. It's a complex cigar that Churchill would have been proud of.

Zino Platinum Scepter

What up, dawg? Zino Platinum Scepter was the first premium cigar to embrace hip-hop culture, and they received a very warm response in return. They got so much love from the rap crowd that they renamed their vitolas in honor of old-school hip-hop. The Lonsdale became the "Low Rider", and the Robusto was turned into "Grand Master". Now, you don't have to be down with the homies to get into this stick. After all, the reason why it caught on in the music world is 'cause those fools be gettin' paid. This is a top-shelf luxury item -- a full-flavored, medium-bodied premium with what is arguably the most complex cigar aroma coming out of the Dominican Republic.

Cohiba XV

The XV is the full-bodied spin-off of the extraordinarily popular Cohiba Red Dot line. The long and careful aging process really sets this cigar apart from the pack. It's constructed with a three-year aged Connecticut Broadleaf binder and aged for a minimum of six months in aromatic cedar chests.

The XV stands for Extra Vigoroso, but the top-shelf ingredients prevent this cigar from being overpowering.

Instead, you get a hearty but smoothed-out smoke that will stand up to the stiffest of drinks and strongest of coffees. The Cohiba XV is a zesty and subtly sweet standout that deserves consideration from any full-bodied fan.

Punch Rare Corojo

The adjective 'rare' is becoming rarer as products become more mass-produced and generic. Thankfully, the world of cigars still offers plenty of opportunities to enjoy handmade, limited-edition luxury. The Punch Rare Corojo is one of those opportunities, made with a unique and beautiful red-hued Sumatra-seed Corojo wrapper grown in the misty mountains of Ecuador. The filler is a rich blend of Honduran, Dominican and Nicaraguan tobaccos. You get a heady, spicy square-pressed premium puffer with a full body and complex character. Anyone familiar with this line knows they don't stay on storehouse shelves for long – this is Punch's most popular line extension. Available in seven sizes including the brand new Elite, grab a box before this rarity becomes a memory.

Punch Upper Cut

The tobacco used in the Punch Upper Cut was grown exclusively for this cigar on a volcanic island off the coast of Nicaragua. The taste is as exotic as its origin -- full of uncommon natural tobacco flavors reminiscent of dark cherry and sweet leather. It's a spicy cigar, but not your traditional spiciness -- it's more of a tangy, sweet spice that's unique to this cigar. The custom-grown ingredients explain why there truly is no cigar quite like the Upper Cut. It has the same expert construction you'd expect from Punch, but its medium- to full-bodied flavor profile satisfies and surprises like no other.

Don Tomas

Skillfully crafted in Honduras, this beautiful smoke is so well-constructed it should be in the Modern Museum of Cigar Art. To our knowledge, no such museum exists... probably because it would be smoked immediately after opening. But as curator of your own humidor, you'd be remiss not to have a Don Tomas on display. Truly a work of art, it's almost a shame to smoke it, but when you do you'll taste the huge payoff that master construction yields. Notes of nuts, wood and spice form in a pleasantly smooth aroma that will be an instant hit with any fan of full-bodied cigars.

Omar Orteiz Originals

Nobody makes a Nicaraguan puro quite like Omar Orteiz. That's because they control the entire production of their cigars, from 'seed to shelf' as it were. This allows for complete quality assurance and results in an incredibly tasty smoke that burns like a champion. Omar Orteiz cigars are known for their full-bodied richness. They're bold but not brash, tempered to complexity by careful blending and aging. You're in for a hearty herb with a toasty dose of the whole gamut of flavors including spice, earth, wood, leather and nuts. Wrap it up with a sweet cocoa finish and you'll understand where the rave reviews were coming from. These humble sticks come bandless in chests of 60, kind of like a counterpart to the Rocky Patel Edge, but with a taste all its own.

Nording

Rocky Patel paid tribute to Eric Nording (arguably the world's premier pipe maker) with a namesake cigar line that has steadily gained critical acclaim throughout the industry. The Nording features a delicious, lush, oily Costa Rican Maduro wrapper, Mexican binder and Honduran/Nicaraguan long-fill. With hints of coffee, as well as nutty, toasty and caramel flavors, this cigar is a joy for any smoker's palate. With an aroma that makes one think they're in a café in Havana, these cigars truly have a Cuban-esque feel.

Carlos Toraño The Brick

Heavy in the hand but smooth on the palate, The Brick stacks up against sticks twice the price with a complexity that builds as you smoke it. Packaged in neat box-pressed bundles, this stick is in the medium-body range but steadily develops rich and diverse flavors thanks to its careful blending by cigar veteran Carlos Toraño. Overall, this cigar has an earthy character, though you'll detect hints of chocolate, coffee, leather and spice. If you're looking for a premium big-ring smoke on a budget, The Brick will change your preconceptions of what a $3 stick can do for your taste buds.

E.P. Carrillo Edicion Inaugural 2009

Ernesto Perez-Carrillo is well-known as a master blender in the cigar industry, having built the La Gloria Cubana brand to prominence before his departure from General Cigar last year. His new venture was a family-owned boutique cigar line, and the Edicion Inaugural 2009 was born quickly. Yet nothing about this stick is rushed – its immaculate Ecuadorian habano leaf has been aged three years, while a unique double-binder design merges tobacco from the Dominican Republic. Only 150,000 were made, meaning this super-premium is already becoming something of a rarity. In stark contrast to the La Gloria Cubana line, you'll find a medium-bodied smoke like none other, with unusual notes of oats, olive and fruit amidst more traditional toasty and sweet flavors. It's a true joy to smoke, complex and well-constructed. Since the wrapper won't be available again until 2012, it's entirely possible this blend will never be recreated, making it a must-smoke while it's still around.

The cigar itself is relatively inexpensive, squarely box-pressed and bold, yet the flavors are rich, round and elegant. Rocky Patel's Indian Tabac Super Fuerte line is a modern marvel, handmade in Honduras with a combination of Costa Rican, Nicaraguan and Honduran tobaccos. The taste is strong but buttery-smooth thanks to patient aging of the cigars for a minimum of four years. Full of spice and sweet nutty flavors, the Super Fuerte produces huge volumes of creamy, rich smoke right out of the gate. By the time you reach the nub you'll be amazed at the satisfying strength and easy-smoking construction of this extra-full-bodied favorite.

La Vieja Habana

Drew Estate, the company famous for its infused cigars like Acid and Natural, actually began with a traditional cigar line back in 1994 called La Vieja Habana. The brand was an instant success, though business-related bumps in the road made this an on-again, off-again line until recently. Now back and bigger than ever, these small-batch beauties are full of the traditional Nicaraguan earthy tobacco taste with added touches of creamy sweetness. Have a particular wrapper shade in mind? Take your pick! These are available in four wrapper variations: African Cameroon, Brazilian Maduro, Connecticut Shade and Cuban Corojo.

Ted's Made by Hand

Ted Jackson is one down-to-earth dude. The cowboy-hat wearin', cigar-chompin' man of pleasure was the brains behind the original Marker's Mark cigar. Hot on the heels of that success,

Ted decided to blend a cigar for his own personal use. A savvy businessman, even he could not predict the explosive popularity of his Ted's Made by Hand brand. Word of mouth spread quickly, and now this unique blend of Brazilian, Nicaraguan and Dominican tobaccos is available at hundreds of locations worldwide. These "simply fine cigars", as Ted refers to them, are available in two distinct blends and three sizes with either a Connecticut shade or Maduro wrapper.

Topper Danli

Four generations of Toppers have gone into the Topper Danli, a creamy-smooth smoke worthy of praise as much for its taste as its price. This cigar was introduced in response to widespread customer demand for lower-price premium smokes, and has since filled a serious gap in the market. People are picking this one up for its medium- to full-bodied character, hint of spice and a slightly sweet, woody core. It's certainly worth a try for its ease-of-smokeability and laid-back taste.

Dumante Sigaro

Dumante Vermodece is the new "it" liquor, a magnificent Italian spirit replete with the flavor of pistachio. Now being introduced in the U.S., bars all over the states are clamoring to get their hands on a few bottles as patrons keep requesting more and more. A truly luxurious alcohol deserves a like tobacco, and thus the Dumante Sigaro was born. You have never tasted a cigar like this – infused with rich pistachio spirits, you get a rich tobacco flavor with never-before tasted pistachio and other nut notes. Packaged in glass tubes with ornate black bands, these sticks exude style and exclusivity. To our knowledge, we're currently the only cigar retailer on the web who has these in stock. This is definitely a first-on-the-block style brand that you'll be hearing more of in the future.

Dona Flor

The Dona Flor is a Brazilian cigar in its entirety. It's crafted to be slightly softer than your average cigar in order to bring out the subtle flavors within. At the start there is an abundance of earthy, spicy, pepper taste that fades into a more mellowing cedar profile. There are subtleties of chocolatey and sweet floral tones throughout, with a unique spicy kick that pairs wonderfully with a glass of red wine. A truly elegant smoking experience that will leave you reflecting on the amazing versatility of tobacco.

Café Creme

Just because it's a cigarillo doesn't mean any corners were cut on the blending or growing of tobaccos. On the contrary, great care was put into the three blends that make up the café creme line, each with its own complex combination. A characteristically smooth and mellow smoke, the aroma is so attractive as to please even the most staunch cigar skeptic. For a little dose of everyday pleasure, Café Creme is sure to satisfy. ## Santa Rosa

A premium, handmade Honduran for less than three bucks a stick is a rare commodity. We realized this immediately when Altadis revamped the Santa Rosa line back in 2007. They kept everything we loved about the cigar and then kicked it up a notch. Using their access to higher quality tobaccos and leveraging their huge volume, the company managed miraculously to improve on an old favorite while slashing the price. This is a creamy, smooth, mild- to medium-bodied gem packaged neatly in an Ecuadorian Connecticut wrapper. We smoked it, we bought it, and the rest is history. If you like laid-back, toasty flavor with just a dash of spice, you can't go wrong with the new and improved Santa Rosa.

Torcedor

The Torcedor cigar line was issued to honor the men and women who work tirelessly to roll cigars for the world to enjoy. The seldom-seen torcedors hone their technique by watching the best and lots of practice. They also develop quite a taste for cigars, as many manufacturers allow their rollers to smoke an unlimited amount of stogies as they roll. Sounds like a dream job, right? But factor in all the hand-cramping work, long hours and third-world wages, and you can really stand back and appreciate the dedication and craftsmanship involved in every stick you smoke. The Torcedor comes in one size, a 7 x 50 Churchill, and is an incredible value for the quality.

Por Larrañaga

A cedary, creamy revelation, the Por Larrañaga is a gold-banded luxury smoke for a steal of a price. A favorite among medium-bodied aficionados, this stick has a long, sweet finish enveloping its smooth and woody core. The ash burns straight and true, requiring no touch-ups. The perfect companion to a morning cup of coffee or a late-afternoon walk, we recommend this stogie to anyone looking to relax their mind and not their budget.

Benchmade by Ashton

José "Pepin" Garcia crafted these Nicaraguan puros to exhibit the construction and flavor traits of a super-premium at bundle-level prices. The triumph that is Benchmade was possible due to Pepin's low-cost access to high-grade tobaccos. The flavors are medium to full-bodied with a sweet earthy richness and a spicy complexity.

Spirit of Cuba

Yes, the Spirit of Cuba pays homage to the classic Havana style, but it does so in its own inimitable way. From the master blenders at Alec Bradley comes this 'Cuban sandwich' style stick, featuring a four-nation tobacco combo bound in a scrumptious Nicaraguan Jalapa leaf. Available with either a Habano or Connecticut wrapper, the Spirit of Cuba is a mild- to medium-bodied smoke with a creamy character and unexpected complexity. It's a budget-priced brand that smokes like a premium, using the same impressive quality assurance as Alec Bradley's top-rated MAXX and Tempus lines.

Baccarat "The Game" Dominican

Baccarat is a casino card game famous for its low house edge and high betting limit. Baccarat "The Game" cigars are famous for their low price and high flavor payoff. Very similar, yes, but with the cigar version of Baccarat you're not gambling at all. Their consistency has made them a sure bet over the years, and we'll lay you 10-to-1 that the new Dominican line ups the ante. Made in the same factory as Avo and Zino, you get the same construction and ingredients you'd expect from a super-premium at a budget price. Unlike the regular line, this Baccarat sports an unsweetened cap, and is mild- to medium-bodied. You'll find a deliciously complex mix of earth, nut and coffee flavors building to a woody middle third with a dry finish.

El Rey Del Mundo

One of the best selling Honduran brands in our humidor, El Rey de Mundo cigars deliver quality every single time. It's a perfect evening cigar for the regular smoker, as well as a good stogie for the novice looking to try a legend. Upon lighting up an El Rey de Mundo, you'll instantly be drawn in by the rich flavors. The mellow Honduran tobacco produces a nice leathery aroma as well as creating a good amount of smoke. El Rey de Mundo cigars use premium Honduran tobacco for the binder and filler, but there are two different wrappers: an Ecuadorian grown Natural, as well as a Connecticut Oscuro wrapper. The Oscuro is a wonderful medium-bodied smoke that packs a bit of a punch for an El Rey de Mundo, which is typically considered a mild cigar.

Helix

You wouldn't know it by the bold packaging and cutting edge name, but the Helix is actually a very mild and mellow smoke. Many are comparing them to Macanudo, and with their similar flavor profiles and quality construction, why wouldn't they? One look at the price should be enough to convince any mild cigar lover that Helix is worth a shot. Available in a silky, toasty Natural wrapper or a similarly mild but slightly sweeter Maduro wrapper. The Helix is a great cigar for the beginning smoker, but a seasoned aficionado can certainly enjoy the smoothness of this cigar as well.

The Back Nine Sampler

We shine on the back nine with a selection of short and dark-wrapped stogies that are a perfect follow-up to lunch at the clubhouse. This sampler features big-name brands, big ring gauges and no sizes above a Toro. You're guaranteed a hearty, flavorful smoke that won't take you all day to enjoy. As with our Front Nine Sampler, you can grab this in ever-increasing quantities for ever-increasing value, as low as $2.64 per stick -- an unheard of price for cigars like these. If you're a fan of Maduro wrappers, you'll love this selection.

Contains one of each: Montecristo Robusto, La Aurora 1495 Series Robusto, Punch Rothchild Maduro, Perdomo Lot 23 Robusto Maduro, Oliva Series G Robusto Maduro, Indian Tabac Super Fuerte Toro Maduro, Medici Cosimo, La Vieja Rothchilde Luxo Maduro, Spirit of Cuba Robusto Natural.
